FOUND

Debbie Carlson

Found is a solo exhibition by artist Debbie Carlson that includes several site-specific installations. In her work, Carlson uses found objects and materials that represent her personal history and signify necessity, memory and nostalgia. By placing everyday objects in an art installation, she transforms them into something poetic and attempts to shift preconceptions about the familiar, recognize new possibilities and realize new meanings.

Debbie Carlson is an Orange County-based mixed media installation artist. She is a first-generation Taiwanese immigrant and has been living in the United States since 1988. Carlson received her MFA from California State University, Long Beach in 2014, and is currently an adjunct studio art professor at Pasadena City College.
